beds and arrange them in triangles or clumps by variety or colors. They will need full sunshine, a southern exposure and good air and soil drainage.

GRASSES Summer lawngasses such as bermuda and zoysia need some fertilizer in late summer to maintain a healthy condition. A lawngress that goes into the winter dormant period in good condition will provide a lush green carpet next spring.

Fertilizer is not recommended later than September for summer grasses. Take precautions to prevent any burning effect from fertilizer applied on grass. If the fertilizer is applied when the grass is damp, turn the sprinkler system on to wash the fertilizer off the leaves or grass blades. Fertilizer left on leaf blades will result in a temporary yellow leaf color.

APPLIANCES

The little tingle you get when you touch an electrical appliance is most likely a danger sign. Do not ignore this sign of warning.

Many electrical appliances develop electrical leakage from the interior electrical parts to the frame or case of the appliances. These appliances may operate normally, but under certain conditions a person using the appliance while in contact with other grounded equipment could receive a severe shock. Faulty appliances should be inspected for obvious leaks such as bad insulation on the cord or heating elements. The more difficult cases require the work of an appliance repairman.

UTENSILS

Cooking with glass has become increasingly popular. The average housewife prefers it because it is easy to clean, is not affected by dishwasher detergents and does not warp or bend when taken from stove to refrigerator.

When using glass products it is important to read and keep the instruction sheets. This way you will get the best use from them while cooking.

Symbols on glassware mean certain things. It is wise to find out what these symbols mean and follow them. Glass - ceramic freeze - cook and then oven, or on top of the range or under the broiler. Check the instructions for exactly what the product symbols mean.

When baking in glass or ceramic cookware, oven temperatures at least 25 degrees lower than suggested metal cookware. A wire grid must be used when using a certain type of glassware on top of the range. Be sure and check your glass product before you use it to determine whether or not you will need the grid.

Table decorations included a beautiful cake with yellow roses and inscribed with "We'll miss you Mary." Silver candle-labaras held burning yellow candles. Places were marked with miniature pieces of luggage and cards featuring yellow roses.

Those attending with the honoree and hostesses were: Miss Vickie Grantham, Miss Cheryl Boswell, Miss Debbie Bowers, Miss Becky Harrison and Miss Henrietta Gaines.

For the occasion, the honoree chose an olive green dress trimmed in ecree lace.

She presented each girl with a stamped-addressed envelope which contained a book of stamps. She hopes to hear from the "ole gang" quite frequently.

Hats are slated for a big year, too, and some of them are "fun" hats. Broad-brimmed Capote hats from the 1930s, and cowboy black high-crowned Indian hats for Western fans are two favorites.

Maxi-scarves long enough to wrap around your throat or your waist and knee-length dowsing have been borrowed from the girls. Maybe they shouldn't have been.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a treasurehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

For her daughter's wedding, the bride's mother chose a mint green sheath with matching lace coat and beige accessories. The groom's mother wore a beige ensemble with matching accessories.

The bride's parents entertained with a reception in the fellowship hall of the church immediately following the wedding ceremony.

Following a trip to points in Florida, the couple will reside in Troy.

Elba Eastern Star To Meet At Seven Tonight

The Elba Chapter 323 Order of the Eastern Star will meet in the lodge room at 7:00 Thursday night, September 11.

The public response to our recent City-wide campaign to raise food and other supplies for the storm-stricken area in Mississippi was extremely gratifying. The endeavor was indeed a success. A van load of supplies was delivered to the Salvation Army headquarters in Mobile on August 25th.

We wish to thank the people of Elba for their wonderful response to this cause. Especially to the members of the City of Elba, to Dorsey Trailers for the use of a van and to the members of the Club who worked with us on this project.

We will thank you very much if you can print this in your paper.

Yours very truly, Elba Lions Club Leroy Miller, President.

With Ferrin Cox

Everyone knows by now that the Elba Tigers won their first football game by a decisive score. At the first of the game it did not look so decisive to young and old alike. In a conversation with little Fleming Kendrick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Doug Kendrick, on Saturday, she expressed her opinion of the fine hand and football team. She added however that during the first part of the game, she decided to be for the team with the green uniforms (Brantley) because they looked like the best ones and she wanted to be for the winning side! Fleming saw the light early and changed her support to the Elba Tigers and was happy with the win.

I was impressed last week with the comments Governor Brewer made about it being his job to enforce law and order in Alabama. Brewer is a different type of governor from any Alabama has had during my time and is apparently gaining strength with the rank and file voters because of this. He is quiet and would rather settle problems behind the scenes but he showed last week that if necessary will call out the national guard or jump in with a verbal assault.

A local merchant stopped me last Friday morning and voiced an opinion that the City should enforce the law about putting merchandise and garbage on the public sidewalks. He said he was as guilty as anyone but if the law was enforced he would gladly stop. He also mentioned parking. His vehicle was parked in front of his business and he would stop that if every other merchant did. I agree with all he said but I wonder if this good customer of ours would make the sacrifice of what the churches call "witnessing" by abiding by these laws on his own and maybe the others would take the hint!

There has been considerable talk in Elba during the last week about a local private school, at first encompassing the lower grades. While the idea appeals to a lot of people at first, the cost of such a movement is never ending and this would cause many to shy away from it. Probably the best long-term solution to any problem associated with the present school is local support to upgrade the quality of the existing schooling and a lot more attention and time spent with training the children at home - with the television turned off or moved to another room.

We hear a lot of rumors, both true and false, concerning our local schools. Someday, I guess I just might take out a week and discuss nothing but some of these stories. Until then and in case I never get around to it let me go on record as being favorably impressed with the overall actions of the local school board. They get blamed for things they don't do and I am sure have made some mistakes. However, the board members have put a lot of time and thought into most of their actions. More to the point, I shudder to control myself when someone accuses them of either speeding or retarding integration in Elba, and I have heard both in the same day. I am impressed with the way the local board has set down with the judges and shown them what was impossible to do rather than jumping up and down and hollering for the benefit of us bystanders. Integration in Elba has been slower than in neighboring schools but it has been far more orderly than any, except maybe in Opp which has been fully integrated since the new high school opened.

The Machinist union and Dorsey Trailer have a contract expiring sometime in the next month or two. I have read in recent months where business and unions have settled contracts without strikes and I surely hope that you folks will get your talks started and come to an agreement before the contract expires - its good for the company and the employees probably need the money they will earn by continuing to work.

BUSINESS AND POLITICS

Should businessmen be active in politics? This question can lead to heated arguments, but logic always seems to require an affirmative answer. We agree with a well-known member of Congress who puts it this way:

"Business leaders have an obligation to get involved in politics and to bring their wisdom and experience to bear on the process of selecting and electing the people who make our laws and run our government." The quote is from a speech by Sen. George Murphy (R-Cal.)

Couple Exchange Vows In Evening Ceremony

Miss Ann Page Rowe and her sister, Miss Nina Rowe of Elba, exchanged vows September 6 at 7:30 p.m. in the First Baptist Church of Elba. The Reverend James A. Auchmuty, Jr. performed the ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Oates Bonneau Rowe and Mr. and Mrs. Marion Alva DeVane, all of Elba.

Mrs. Paul King of Elba was organist and Miss Jane Doswell of Hayneville was vocalist. She sang "Whither Thou Goest" and "The Wedding Prayer." The traditional wedding marches were used.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a formal gown of white silk face peade sole designed with a Victorian neckline and long sleeves. The fitted bodice and sleeves were of hand-clipped Chantilly lace and motifs of the same lace beaded in seed pearls. The back of the dress extended into wattleau drape that fell gracefully to the hemline of the gown. They wore short float veils caught to the Dior bow of matching azalea satin.

Lulu Powell of Elba, cousin of the groom, was flower girl. She wore a clipped Chantilly lace and floor-length dress of pink satin and carried a white beaded in seed pearls. The back of the dress extended into wattleau drape that fell gracefully to the hemline of the gown. They wore short float veils caught to the Dior bow of matching azalea satin.

Mr. Marion Alva DeVane of Elba, served his son as best man. Usher were Mr. and Mrs. Oates Bonneau Rowe and Mr. and Mrs. Marion Alva DeVane, all of Elba. Mr. Charles Karkirk of Tallahassee, Florida, Mr. Mickey McCullough of Montgomery and Mr. Larry Carter of Auburn, Alabama, were groomsmen.

The church decorations consisted of spiral candelabras holding burning pink tapers with greenery of ivy and similar, two baskets containing pink glads and carnations, and jade fern trees.

Following the ceremony, the bride's parents entertained at a reception in the fellowship hall of the church. The guests were presented to the receiving line by Mrs. Kimmie Dorsey.

Mrs. Mace Cook registered the guests. The bride's table was draped in floor-length white satin overlaid with white lace. The five-tiered wedding cake was embossed with roses and topped with the traditional bride and groom. Mrs. Robert Page and Mrs. Walter Jackson, both of Opp, served the cake.

The groom's table was covered with an ecru linen cloth and held the traditional groom's cake. A bronze pitcher held an arrangement of yellow roses. Mrs. Claude Dorsey and Douglas Page of Opp served the groom's cake. They were assisted by Mrs. John Kimmy and Mrs. Milton Warr.

The punch table was covered with a white satin cloth and held a silver candelabra with burning pink candles and arrangements of pink carnations and net. Punch was served from a silver bowl with a decorative border of coral vine and fern. Silver compotes held pink and azalea mints and nuts. Mrs. Leroy Miller and Mrs. Boyd Murphree served punch and were assisted by Mrs. Drexel Cook and Mrs. Ben Brock.

Miss Dixanne King and Miss Lynn Marsh assisted in serving. After the reception the couple left for a wedding trip to Florida. The bride wore a beige knit dress and coat with the orchid from her bridal bouquet. On their return, the couple will reside in Enterprise while the groom is stationed at Ft. Lucker.

AFTER REHEARSAL PARTY

Immediately following the rehearsal, the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alva DeVane, entertained at an after-rehearsal party at the Elba County Club.

Arrangements of white wedding bells centered with pink roses and pom poms were placed on the tables covered with white linen cloths. A three-course dinner was served to the bride and groom, their parents, and the members of the wedding party. Other guests included Mrs. Walter Jackson and Mrs. Douglas Page of Opp, Mrs. Charles Karkirk of Tallahassee, Florida, Mrs. Mickey McCullough of Montgomery and Mr. Larry Carter of Auburn, Alabama, and Mr. Larry Grantham.

ELBA, ALABAMA

State Agriculture Inspector for the Alabama Department of Agriculture and Industries, is interested in keeping Coffee County as free of white fringe beetles as is humanly possible. Johnson works in cooperation with us in spotting and treating infestations. A white fringe beetle is about four times the size of a boll weevil. It does not have a long extended bill. It has little eyes and mouth like a mouse. It eats leaves from soybeans, peanuts and cotton. Farmers supply the necessary insecticides and Johnson makes the application with a jeep and turbine blower. Other insects that are kept under close scrutiny are the sweet potato beetle and the Japanese beetle.

MORE FOOD

According to Dr. Donald Hayhurst, political science professor at Auburn University, 225 babies are born and only 92 adults die. This means that each day 190,000 more folks appear at the dinner table. I can't help but believe that there is a tremendously good future in the production of hogs, beef, and poultry and even peanut butter.

FISH MARKET

L. R. Kilcrease of Rt. One, Samson, keeps a freezer full of fresh, dressed, fat catfish in his small country store. I stopped by the other afternoon and these fish looked so good I just couldn't resist buying a package. Kilcrease has a small pond back of his house and does his own raising, fishing and dressing. I asked Kilcrease what changes he would make in his farming if he had the opportunity to go back through life and he said that he would concentrate more on livestock production rather than row crops but he would hold on to his peanuts.

WINTER GRAZING

Ed Lambert who lives in the Ino community at Route One, Kinaston, is getting ready to plant 35-40 acres of fescue and arrowleaf clover. Lambert is looking for some grazing crops that he won't have to plant every winter and that will carry his brood cows through the winter. I recommended fescue and arrowleaf clover to him because he has a low, bottom area which is ideally suited to fescue and arrowleaf.

PEANUT PROSPECTS

It looks like peanut yields are going to vary from farm to farm and from community to community. W. J. Smith of Kinaston told me Thursday afternoon that he had gotten plenty of rain on his peanuts since July 8. Smith said that when he lay down at night, he did so feeling that he had done everything possible for his peanuts that day. He dug up a hill will be the Lecture Room at the Enterprise Junior College in Enterprise. The time of the event is 9:30.
